

WORLDS, HABITATS & CORRIDORS

Eighteen geographic administrations. Every district and local office, with regional identity and practical division of powers.

A COMMON FUTURE.
A LOCAL HOME.

A HOME IS MORE THAN A LOCATION

REGIONS AND MEMBERSHIP

Geographic service areas are not automatically sovereign member states. A regional administration coordinates services across its district network; democratic membership follows inhabited communities and their charters. Celestial bodies remain shared settings, not privately owned territories.

LOCAL OFFICES

Each of 90 districts has four local service offices. In inhabited districts these cover civic services, utilities, local economy and safety. Protected, robotic and distant mission districts instead use mission access, infrastructure, protection and records functions. No current population is asserted.

THE SCALE

18 administrations + 90 districts + 360 local offices = 468 regional institutions within the full 1,432-institution registry. A district may serve multiple small habitats; new neighborhoods can be added beneath it when a real service need exists.

MATRIX ACCOUNTABILITY

The regional charter sets the administrative line. Union specialist standards set technical obligations. An inspector can refer a case directly to an independent authority; a regional governor cannot waive safety or rights guarantees.

ADD COMMUNITIES WITHOUT LOSING COHERENCE

PROVISIONAL SERVICE CHARTER

Begin with named operators, essential-service reserves, communication contacts and rescue agreements. Survey sites need mission services rather than premature municipal government.

LOCAL DEMOCRATIC TRANSITION

As permanent residents arrive, establish representation, residency services, schools, healthcare and housing rights. Local consent precedes accession to a full member charter.

DISTRICT BRANCHING

Split a district only when workload, remoteness or representation needs justify it. A branch can contain two, four or no subordinate offices; the registry model supports arbitrary depth.

OUTER-SYSTEM AUTONOMY

Plan long local response windows, redundant records and emergency powers with expiration. Long delays strengthen the case for delegated local authority and public post-incident review.

WORLD-SPECIFIC LIMITS

The Sun and giant planets have no proposed surface municipalities. Sensitive ocean worlds preserve scientific evidence. Venus cloud habitats, large solar collectors, Oort settlements and terraforming belong to speculative phases of this fictional setting.

FICTION, SCIENCE AND PROVENANCE

ORIGINAL FICTIONAL ARCHITECTURE

All institutions, mandates, charter rules, hierarchy codes and identities are original conceptual worldbuilding. They are not descriptions of NASA, the European Union or a current interplanetary government. The references inform scientific geography and feasibility limits, not political design.

NASA SOLAR SYSTEM EXPLORATION

Geographic reference for the Sun, planets and broad system organization. Agency mandates and political structures are original fiction.

NASA PLUTO & DWARF PLANETS

Ceres and Pluto are dwarf planets; the regional grouping is an administrative design, not a scientific reclassification.

NASA: MARS TERRAFORMING NOT POSSIBLE USING PRESENT-DAY TECHNOLOGY

A present-day feasibility constraint. This kit treats planetary transformation as speculative, conditional research rather than established capability.

VISUAL PROVENANCE

The Union, Earth Orbit Command and Earth-Moon Operations marks are retained from the supplied screenshots. New vector marks and publication layouts extend that visual family through flat color, thin orbital geometry and bold typography. Generated imagery is excluded from this final edition. Akira Expanded Demo is included under its creator's personal noncommercial terms; Arial is a system body font.

SCOPE LIMITS

This is an expansive initial architecture rather than a claim that every possible future institution can be anticipated. New agencies can be added using the explicit registry and branching rules. Scientific unknowns remain unknown; speculative technologies are not assigned invented deployment dates.
